Boone Bait Company was started in 1951 by Don Boone and Sandy Showalter. Sandy became the sole owner of the company in 1956. Peter Foley purchased half of the company in 1976 with an agreement to purchase the remaining 50 percent at a future date. The final purchase by Foley was in 1983. Peter says "Sandy was a sensational partner, you could not ask for a better one." Peter's daughter; T.L., became full time in 1993. Toni Foley, Peter's wife, and Meghan, Peter's other daughter, also help by frequently attending trade shows and visiting customers both at home and in the 70 countries where Boone lures are sold.

In 2004 David Workman, world renown and record-holder in competitive fishing, developed a line for King Fish lures and added fish bags and accessories to the Boone line. Our company is old enough to have so many friends, old tales, laughs and memories that we feel we could write a short book.

Peter has served in our industry trade association for so long it has changed its name two times and has moved locations several times. We are passing along our love of our company and our industry. If you visit our 17,000 square foot carpeted warehouse in Winter Park, FL you may hear and see our seven grandchildren running around when school is not in session and you will be warmly welcomed by our staff and our shop dog Rosie.

We believe that fishing is so much fun and a healthy outdoor sport for all ages. Our lures have caught untold numbers and species of fish of all sizes all over the world. Our family is proud of the part we have been allowed to play in the development and enjoyment of the beautiful sport fishing life.

Boone currently ships to 70 countries from its modern air conditioned 17,000 sq. ft. warehouse located in Winter Park, Florida. We stock over 300,000 packs of skirts as well as an additional 600,000 in stock items of fishing tackle and accessories. We take pride in our ability to ship to you on time. We look forward to another exciting year in the tackle business.

Warm regards,
Toni, T.L., Meghan & Peter!

Boone Center Console Kill Bags

The Boone Center Console Kill Bags are insulated and most important, they are the only bags on the market that have heat sealed seams. This prevents your brine solution from leaking and contaminating the bags' insulation. Once contaminated, it is impossible to get the odor out of the bag. All Boone kill bags are heat sealed. The Boone Center Console Kill Bags are made with six tie downs, two handles, and webbing that are heat sealed to bags for superior strength. The center console kill bags have a screw cap drain and bag material is 1000 denier vinyl with nylon fibers for added strength.

Boone's Insulated Cooler Kill Bags

1000 Denier Fiber Reinforced Nylon PVC Heat Sealed Both Sides And Top

Benefits of Heat Sealing.

- It keeps your boat clean, your fish fresh, and your ice from melting.
- It prevents insulation in the bags from being contaminated with fish odor and can't be decontaminated.
- The webbing straps are first sealed on straps of nylon PVC then heat sealed to the bag for extra strength and protection.
- Each heat sealed bag has a 7/8" plastic screw top drain in the bottom for easy draining.
- All Bags are easy to clean and have 2 zipper pulls on heavy duty nylon zippers.

Boone Needlefish™ Jigs

BOONE TARGETS BOTTOM FEEDERS WITH NEW JIGS:

The Boone Needlefish Jig is a cost effective product that produces great results on a variety of bottom fish. Colorful abalone finishes are designed to attract and simulate bone jarring, aggressive strikes. The slim, long hydrodynamic styling allows the Boone Needlefish Jig to drop quickly through the water column. Each jig is pre-rigged with a VMC 3X treble hook. Hooks may be replaced with your favorite style and brand. This will save the buyer money over the more expensive brands of metal jigs.

Available in 8 sizes.
From 3" long, 3/4 oz. to 8" long and 7 oz.

Displayed in the BOONE tamper proof, exclusive interactive package.

00622	8/0	3	10

Step 1 - If Ballyhoo is frozen, place in 5 gallon bucket of saltwater and allow to thaw.

Step 2 - Next step is to bend the body back and forth to break the spine. This improves the swimming action of the Ballyhoo.

Step 3 - Insert the hook through the gills, so the hook point comes out the belly of the bait. The eye of the hook should be located even with the gill.

Step 4 - The pin placement should be forward of the eyes and passes through the lower bill and upper lip to prevent the mouth from opening. Take the copper wire and make wraps in front of the pin near eye. Then continue making wraps down the bill of the Ballyhoo until the copper wire is used up. Important to make wrap tight so pin will not loosen up.

Step 5 - Slide Boone Ballyhoo skirt over bill and pin. The boone skirt will help protect the Ballyhoo and make the bait last longer as well as adding color to the bait.

The Sea Minnow's History

The Boone Sea Minnow™ arrived at our development lab as a Pacific Anchovy that was purchased from Bisbee's fuel dock in Newport Beach, CA by Mike Davy. The Anchovies were packed in dry ice for its FED EX trip. Thus the new life of Boone's® most popular trolling lure ever, the Sea Minnow™. We made a master mold from the frozen Anchovy duplicating every detail of the fish. After molding the Anchovy insert in our lead department we then send it to the paint shop to be decorated. This lure has the distinction of catching a Pacific Sea Lion who was naturally released. The lure is deadly on all fish at all speeds. Always fish behind a Boone Bird.

Boone Bait: why The Bird keeps on selling even after three decades at the top

The Bird, one of the world's best-selling big game lures, is still going strong 30 years after it first came on to the market. But Peter Foley, the owner of Boone Bait and the man who discovered the iconic product, confesses that he stumbled on it by accident.

Foley was staying at a friend's house during a fishing trip to Hawaii when he noticed a crude and curious-looking wooden bird sitting on the garage shelf.

The sorry-looking specimen had, it was explained, been used in the past by Japanese commercial tuna fishermen. Persuading the owner to lend it to him, Foley used the battered bird the next day as a teaser and raised two large marlin.

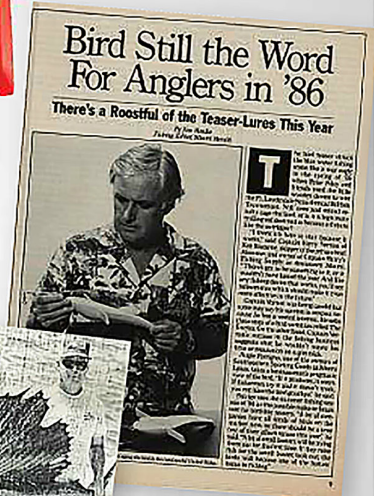

Sufficiently intrigued, Foley took the bird back to Florida where he promptly won the Fort Lauderdale Billfish Tournament, using the attractor to boat a brace of marlin. And when a bird helped his boat to a second win a few weeks later, Foley decided to put the lure into production.

"We cast moulds so we could produce it in tough urethane foam instead of wood," he recalls. "It got an enormous amount of publicity because of its success in tournaments and demand was very high. Lots of lures are hot for a time and then peter out, but the Bird has just gone on selling."

The Bird's allure lies in the commotion it creates as it skitters and skates wildly across and just above the surface, resembling a flying fish. Its early success spawned a phenomenon, with Boone besieged by demand. One tournament even banned its use because it was 'too productive' and imitators scrambled to produce copies.

"Today it is popular all over the world," says Foley. "There is nowhere that we don't sell it. It's been copied and undercut on price, but people still want the original and it remains a great product for us."

The Bird has small, rigid wings jutting from either side and can be rigged with or without hooks to be used as either a lure or teaser. Though used mainly for trolling, the Baby Bird and Mini Bird models can be fished as conventional lures and produce a frantic, fluttering action when cranked quickly. Although the bird's initial reputation was as a billfish-raiser, it has also proved popular as a teaser for dolphin, yellowfin tuna and other species. The smaller models have proved effective for freshwater species as well as smaller saltwater quarry.
